Greetings!

I have been developing software ever since I can remember. I have been professionally developing fullstack web systems with Vite + Typescript + React + NestJS + MongoDB stack. I absolutely love crafting libraries, and maintaining open-source projects too.

Web is my primary profession, but not the only skill I have. I have experience with Game Development as well. (which granted me a vision on how computer graphics in general works as well as in OpenGL/WebGL)

I really think I have a wide variety of a skillset to present. I am an adaptive and a studious person. I generally try to approach problems from multiple perspectives, which makes me enjoy brainstorming with other people as well. I also try to approach my solutions/implementations to be as abstract as possible, which clearly helps me turn them scalable with further features, improvements and configurations.

A more detailed summary of my skillset can be reached on my Github profile.

Thanks for reading,
Have a nice day :)
